Jeanea Wyles

Interview with Miss LBHC Jeanea Wyles.

By: Lorna Little Owl

Jeanea Wyle is a first-year student at LBHC. She is a graduate from Lodge Grass High school, MT. A member of the Whistling Water clan and child of the Ties the Bundle clan. She is a full-time student, majoring in Crow Studies. Her educational goals include earning her associate's degree at LBHC. Then moving on to achieving her goal to become a doctor, with a focused career in Anesthesiology.

Outside of her schooling, Jeanea enjoys attending powwows; and dancing the traditional Crow woman style. She also enjoys sewing and creating traditional outfits. Her favorite garments to create are ribbon skirts and ribbon shirts. This past September, Jeanea competed for the title of Miss Crow Nation. The competition required participants to assemble a speech and traditional dance performance. The winner was determined by a total point system conducted by the competition judges. Jeanea in her efforts, came up short in points and a close win for the title. However, despite her loss, she has continued to stay motivated and moved on to earn her spot as Miss Little Big Horn College Princess.

Jeanea is a member of the following LBHC student clubs, Indian club and AIHEC. She and a group of other students are brainstorming with the idea of starting up a Native Fashion club on campus as well. Jeanea, with her positive and outgoing nature, will be representing her new title by attending local area powwows. Fundraising for the LBHC powwow, which is scheduled to take place in the Spring of 2024.

It was in this interview Jeanea stated "I really enjoyed when the local elementary school attended the Native American week powwow on campus. I loved seeing all the young kids dance in grand entry, and dancing alongside them was fun." She encourages the native youth to dance more at powwows; and to someday host a youth public speaking workshop.
